

Call for Ideas:

‘A Fair of Extraordinary Ideas for Care at Work’

As part of the workshop Giving Care: (A) Time of Economic Change, Starting from Work with Jennifer Nedelsky (Professor Emerita, University of Toronto) at Polo Lionello Bonfanti, Incisa e Figline Valdarno, on May 2–3, a special 2-hour session will be dedicated to showcasing innovative and creative ideas related to the topic ‘care and work’.

This session will feature brief talks by selected speakers focusing on different types of in-progress projects: e.g. proposal of implementation of existing business models or workplace practices; scholarly research on specific case studies, conceptual or philosophical reflections, artistic works, and more. The best presentation, as voted on by a jury of experts and event participants, will be eligible for a symbolic grant to support the development of the project.

We are seeking speakers interested in presenting their ideas in a concise and engaging format of no more than 7 minutes. This may include the use of PowerPoint presentations, visual prompts, a lectern, or other creative presentation methods. Each presentation will be followed by a brief feedback session from a panel of experts from the Economy of Francesco and other institutions.

Submission Guidelines

To submit your proposal and have the chance to publicly present your idea, please send an abstract of your project or idea (maximum 250 words) along with a short biographical note (maximum 150 words) to comunicazione@edicspa.com by March 20, 2025.

Notification Acceptance

Applicants will be notified of the selection results by March 31, 2025.
